Pat sings without. I ll go back again to the land I love so well. Farewell to Biddy and to Barney; Go back to where my darling Elsie sleeps, Up mong the lakes of Killarney. Enter, Pat, R., dressed in old clothes. Pat. Och! Begorra, and I m all broke up! I ll jist tell ye what s the matter; fate has been playing the very divil wid poor old Pat! Sure didn t I win the sweet Biddy Malone, as purty a lady as iver ye saw, and we settled down in our little cot, with a wee patch for praties. After a while a little angel came to bless our home - little Elsie, the darlint! God bless her! and I were a happy man; for sure, when I wor coming home from work she would run out and put her wee little arms around my neck and would say, I love you, daddy! But we soon saw that our little darlint was gittin whiter every day, and she didn t run out to meet me any more; and one day she jist fell aslape and they came and took her away and put her in the cold, dark ground. Och! Begorra, and I m all broke up! (wipes eyes) Me poor Biddy died of a broken heart and left me alone intirely. So I thought I would come to Ameriky and forget me grief. So here I am - walking the streets of Warnock, and begging a man for a penny - but my heart will turn back to where me darlints lie up mong...
