J8 2005zc OCLC Number: (OCoLC)312162804 Subject: Illegal aliens -- Government policy -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 9 path to permanent citizenship or residency. All we ask is that they achieve those rights in the same way as all other immigrants. Now, there have been broad claims that I have read about those who say a system will or will not work, and I guess we all have strong opinions. But I think it is important that they be informed by the research. And to that point, a recent Pew Hispanic Center study shows that the vast majority, by a ratio of 4 to 1, of undocumented workers would come forward to participate in a program that would allow them to work temporarily in the United States on the condition that they ultimately return home to their home country. Interestingly, that same survey of almost 5,000 undocumented immigrants who are applying for their matricular consular card here in the United States revealed that the percentage of migrants who said they would come forward and participate did not increase when the proposal included a direct path to a green card from within the United States. But we must also be realistic about how long it will take for the 10 million people, approximately, who are in our country to return in a legal status, and it is essential that that transition be humane and orderly. Our proposal, therefore, allows undocumented workers up to 5 years to accomplish this process, and while they are in the United States during that 5-year period, they may still work and travel, but out of...
