Excerpt: . . . Fair youth, beneath the trees, thou canst not leave Thy song, nor ever can those trees be bare; Bold lover, never, never, canst thou kiss, Though winning near the goal, --yet do not grieve; She cannot fade, though thou hast not thy bliss, Forever wilt thou love, and she be fair! More happy love! more happy, happy love! Forever warm, and still to be enjoyed, Forever panting and forever young! And so, good-bye, young people, whom we part with here. Shadows yon have been and are to my readers; very real you have been and are to me, --as real as the memories of many friends whom I shall see no more. As I am not in the habit of indulging in late suppers, the reader need not think that I shall spread another board and invite him to listen to the conversations which take place around it. If, from time to time, he finds a slight repast awaiting him on the sideboard, I hope he may welcome it as pleasantly as he has accepted what I have offered him from the board now just being cleared. It is a good rule for the actor who manages the popular street drama of Punch not to let the audience or spectators see his legs. It is very hard for the writer of papers like these, which are now coming to their conclusion, to keep his personality from showing itself too conspicuously through the thin disguises...
